*It's Vacation
Time!*

During the summer, I love to take a good book with me on every trip. (Actually whenever I go anywhere...)

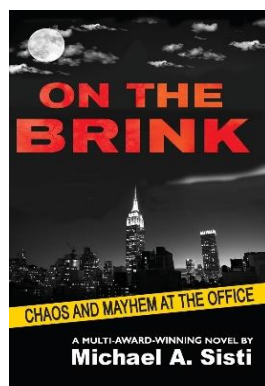

This month I am honoring authors that I've enjoyed reading!

There so many good books out there that can accompany you on your travels. Some I've listened to while driving, others I've read lying in the sand and some are just for sitting in the shade sipping a Diet Coke. Vacation is for relaxing while you escape into the story!

Let me tell you about what I've been reading:

This is an interesting romance that falls somewhat into the sci-fi category, I really enjoyed the premise and the characters. I found myself thinking about it afterwards for days.

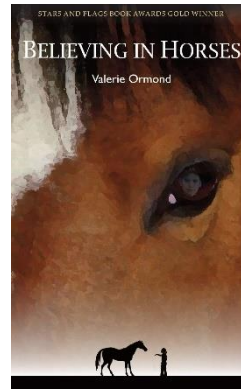

This was an unexpected find! First time reading this author. His adventures of Dave were full of twists and turns. I couldn't stop reading it. I didn't want it to end, so I'm excited because it's the of first four in the series!

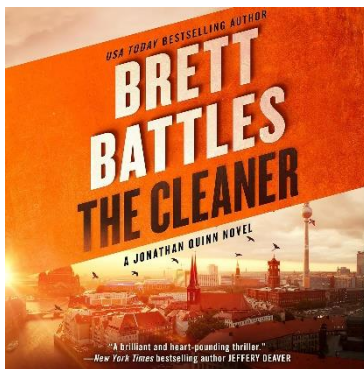

This book is a fun regency romance with an unexpected twist.

It would be a quick and easy beach read while relaxing in the sand.

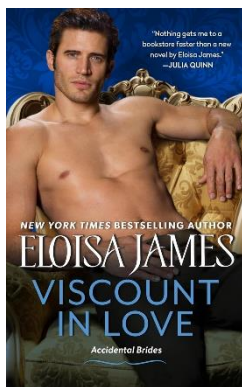

This is a wonderful story suitable for preteen to adult. I gave it to my granddaughter to take on vacation with her. I know she'll love it! I did.

My husband I have truly enjoyed listening to the Jonathan Quinn series by Brett Battles, while driving to various destinations. We are on book nine.

This is about a professional cleaner – it may not be for everyone, but we've loved it. Jonathan comes in and takes care of bodies. However, the characters are engaging and we're totally invested in their stories. There is a total of sixteen books. We hope there is more by the time we reach the sixteenth.

For years we enjoyed listening to Stuart Woods's Stone Barrington series (65 books) which is how we found Brett Battles. He has finished some of Wood's books after he passed away. We found we enjoyed Battle's writing and looked to see what he wrote. Jonathan Quinn series was a great find for us.

If you like romance, you can never go wrong with Eloisa James.

This is a fun story that will make you laugh out loud. Never wanted it to end.

This is a light summer read, it is part of the series, but I liked this one the best!

Find something to take with you!! Vacation and Books go together like Zebras and Stripes!

Tips for Writers

Whenever I'm finished writing for the day, I find it helpful to use a red font and leave a couple of brief sentences about where my thoughts were going as I close my writing devise.

Life will often get in the way of our best intentions of returning to the keyboard. It may be an hour, a week or even a month before you have the opportunity to continue your story. These notes will help you get back on the right track and remember the thoughts you had at that time.

A Personal Update on this Writer:

My husband continues to improve only to have another setback thrown his way. We have stayed strong. I truly admire his ability to face adversity with a smile. We'll keep moving forward, hoping for the best result.

While I'm in the midst of planning appearances this fall at a number of Craft and Vendor fairs, I'm holding off confirmation until some of these health issues are settled. In the meantime - I'm sorry I'll be unable to see many of you again. I always look forward to speaking with my readers in person!

Whispers In the Woods - may be delayed until next year, but will be quickly followed by Whispers in the Wilderness. Hard at work on both!

NOW WHAT IS COMING OUT THIS FALL...

COMING THIS CHRISTMAS

Christmas at Bluegate Farm

The story takes place in northern Pennsylvannia. Katlyn Young's car ends up in a snowdrift during a winter blizzard and Cooper James, her old high school crush, is the one who rescues her.

Cooper's life took a dramatic turn from a once sought-after, star football player, to a single father of triplets working from home. At the moment, he is in the midst of a serious crisis. He comes up with a crazy scheme the minute he sees Katlyn again.

Katlyn is now an elementary teacher, whose life changed years ago when she became ill. It resulted in a secret that she had kept for years.

Can the old love rekindle, or will schemes and secrets keep them apart?
